तमोऽरिं सर्वपापघ्नं प्रणातोऽस्मि दिवाकरम्

The worship of the Sun is as old as civilization.

I bow to you, O Surya, the Son of Kashyapa Muni, the destroyer of darkness and all sins, whose luster is like that of red Jaswand Flower. The worship of the Sun is as old as civilization.

The Sun that awakens man from darkness, the Sun that is so brilliant that it cannot be seen by the naked eye evokes awe in the human mind. In the Rig-Veda, Surya has been described as the life (atma) of all creation. Surya is praised as the God of Gods (Rig-Veda 1.50.10). Homage is paid to Surya by chanting special names while offering him salutation-Surya Namaskara. These twelve names that we use to worship Surya serve to remind us of his glory and power and to be eternally grateful for his constant blessings in our life here on earth.

February 11, 2013

Dear Prof. Dr. Sanjay Chordiya & Mrs. Sushama Chordiya

Please accept warm greetings and congratulations for the function organized on 7th Feb. 2013 for presentation of "Suryadatta National Lifetime Achievement Award" and "Suryadatta National Awards 2013".

Due to health problem, I am sorry I could not give full justice to the programme. I have also missed an opportunity to listen to the speeches of the eminent awardees.

Being part of your organization, I was hesitant to accept the award. However your love did not allow me to refuse the same. This programme also provided me an opportunity to meet several friends including Manindarjit Singh Bitta and others.

Love and affection of friends like you has always remained the strength in my life. I am sure that I will continue to receive the same in future.

I have my dream about Suryadatta Group of Institutes. Within few years, this Institute should be "Harvard" of India. Please try to fulfil my dream.

With warm regards and best wishes for Suryadatta Group of Institutes.

Why Career in Cyber & Digital Science?

GenNext Careers in Cyber & Digital Sciences

Cyber Security is an important subject for everyone, not just corporations. It's also vital for our children to understand how to stay safe online, and the need to be aware of any dangers that might come their way. We recognize the importance of this topic, and we want to not only empower our teens with the knowledge and skills to navigate the online world safely and responsibly but also to show them that they could be following a career in cyber security, as these jobs will be in high demand in the future.

Digital World Dependencies and Vulnerabilities - Your Cybersecurity Needs to Keep Up In 2022 alone, a total of 4,100 publicly disclosed data breaches occurred, comprising some 22 billion records that were exposed. The rise of artificial intelligence in general, and generative AI in particular, is fundamentally altering the way companies use software. Remote work has also moved digital exchanges from office networks to residential ones, which have a greater variety of connected devices with less protection against cyber intrusion.

Cyber Crime Statistics:- As per EarthWeb: Cybercrime Statistics 2023 Key Cybercrime Statistics 2023 95% of all cybercrime and security breaches are due to human error. The FBI reported that there was a 300% increase in cybercrime reports since the COVID-19 pandemic. Experts expect cybercrime damages to reach $10.5 trillion per year by 2025. Global cyber security spending is expected to reach $170.4 billion by 2022. A mere 5% of all company folders are effectively protected. In 2020, 48% of all malicious email attachments were sent as Microsoft Office files.

Talent Gap & Skills Shortage : The world shortage as per Weforum.org, According to the Future of Jobs 2023 report, cybersecurity is among the top strategically emphasized skills for the workforce. Yet, there is a shortage of 3.4 million cyber security experts to support today's global economy.

This number is only expected to grow as the impact of emerging technologies is felt across organizations. We must prioritise thoughtful investment in the creation and expansion of cybersecurity talent. Suryadatta International Institute of Cyber Security us an opportunity to create skilled, socially valuable and long-term careers for people from all walks of life and in all regions of the world. We at Suryadatta help you in convening a multistake holder initiative to help fill global cybersecurity skills gap.

Scarcity of Cyber Jobs in India - India had 40,000 + job openings for cybersecurity professionals as of May 2023. As per economic times, there is an urgent need for upskilling the workforce and hiring qualified professionals.

The demand for cybersecurity professionals has far exceeded supply, causing many businesses to struggle to recruit qualified personnel. Cyber Security skill sets that are in high demand include data privacy, cloud security, AI security, and network security. Enterprises in the country have experienced over 2000 attacks every week in Q1 2023, marking an 18% increase compared to the previous year. The healthcare industry was a prime target, with 7.7% of attacks directed towards it.

What is Cyber Security -

Cybersecurity is the application of tools, technologies, policies, processes, controls, and procedures in the protection or recovery of networks, devices, systems and applications from digital attacks. The digital attacks are aimed at accessing, destroying and altering sensitive data, disrupting workflows and extorting money.

Two techies, student lose ₹54L to lure of making a quick buck

Mihir Tanksale & Asseem Shaikh | TNN

Pune: Two software engineers from Dehu Road and Wagholi, and a business administration student from Dighi lost a total of Rs 54.3 lakh to the lure of making money from online tasks. In the Dehu Road case, a 36-year-old software engineer, who lost Rs 35 lakh to crooks, had responded to a text he had received in December, which offered money for writing movie reviews. "The victim was asked to join a group on a messenger app and was given a few tasks for which he received money," inspector Diganbar Suryavanshi of Dehu Road police said. "Having gained the victim's confidence, the crooks then asked him to go for some part-time tasks to make more money. Initially, the techie invested small amounts and got returns. Later, he started investing more and even diverted a home loan amount for this. Till April 17, he ended up investing Rs 35.7 lakh and was later left in the lurch by the crooks," Suryavanshi said. A 33-year-old techie from Wagholi lost Rs 17.41 lakh between April 12 and 19 after crooks sent him a text offering a part-time job to write reviews on Google Maps. "The victim was promised a commission between Rs 3,000 and Rs 8,000 per day," inspector (crime) Maruti Patil of the Lokhand police said. The modus operandi used in this case was similar to that of the Dehu Road case. Investigation revealed that the amounts transferred by the victim went to four bank accounts in Delhi and Hyderabad, and the crooks used a cell phone with a bogus identity, he said. In the third case, a 20-year-old second-year business administration student from Dehu Phata lost Rs 1.6 lakh in "like video and earn" fraud between April 21 and 23. Senior inspector Machhindra Pandit said that while searching for jobs online, the student came across a site that promised earnings from home. "She clicked on the link and was told to join a group and complete a few tasks," Pandit said. "The crooks told her to invest in cryptocurrency for more profit and she transferred Rs 1.39 lakh. The student told us that she was unable to withdraw her earnings despite seeing it on the app. Realising she had been tricked, she approached the police."

Techies fall for cybercrimes, lose over ₹60L

Three software professionals have approached the Pune police with complaints of being cheated by online task scamsters. In the first case, a Wadgaonsheri-based techie alleged that she had been duped of Rs 38.4 lakh in just two days. Two techies from Wakad collectively lost over Rs 22 lakh to cyber crooks in separate cases. While one lost almost Rs 19 lakh, the other lost close to Rs 3.5 lakh. Cases of cryptocurrency and online insurance premium scams were also reported in the city on Sunday. P2

Software professional loses ₹28L in crypto investment fraud

Gitesh Shekhar@timesgroup.com

Pune: A 45-year-old woman techie was allegedly duped of Rs 28.3 lakh by online fraudsters between September last year and March on the pretext of handsome returns on cryptocurrency investments. The cyber crime branch of the Pune police is investigating the case. "The victim's phone number was added to a group on an internet-based messaging app where members discussed different types of cryptocurrencies and the profits derived from them. This interested the complainant, who then contacted the fraudsters on the messaging app," inspector Kumar Ghadge of the cyber police told TOI. "The scamsters then asked the complainant to download an online cryptocurrency exchange on her phone and asked her to buy cryptocurrencies from it. She did as she was instructed by the fraudsters and bought cryptocurrency from them for a couple of months," he added. According to the police inspector, the complainant also paid "taxes and fees" to the fraudsters expecting a rich dividend on her investments. "In the process, she ended up transferring a total of Rs 28.3 lakh to them, bit by bit. Upon requesting returns, she was asked to pay even more money. The victim exhausted her savings and availed a personal loan from a bank to ensure investment in cryptocurrency," Ghadge said. "However, the scamsters kept demanding more money from her, making the complainant suspicious. She then approached us," he added. The police said that they are examining the details of the exchange which the woman used to buy cryptocurrency and are trying to establish a money trail. "It is likely that the fraudsters are based and operate out of a foreign country," Ghadge said.

Worrying Rise In Cybercrimes In City; IT Professionals Among Most Common Victims

3 techies cheated of over ₹60 lakh in separate part-time online job scams

In One Case, Police Manage To Recover ₹8L

Gitesh Shekhar & Mihir Tanksale | TNN

Pune: Software professionals in the city are falling easy prey to online part-time job scams and losing money in lakhs. Currently, the cyber police in the city are investigating multiple cases of techies being lured with promise of easy money and then cheated of their savings. In one of the cases, a techie alleged that she had been duped of Rs 3.4 lakh in two days.

PROMISING EASY MONEY

Cyber crooks are taking advantage of people's desire to make a fast buck by offering fraudulent job opportunities, such as paying ₹50 for filing a video. These cyber criminals often contact their targets on social media platforms like WhatsApp, Facebook or LinkedIn and promise easy money. They often take personal information and may even ask their victims to make additional payments in exchange for access to non-existent jobs. The scamsters often pretend to represent global internet or social media firm that the victim may not have heard of. To trap their targets, they even pay small amounts for the first few "tasks". But later, they ask their victims to upgrade their membership to get access to better-paying jobs.

PREMIUM FRAUD

- There are also cyber crooks who steal money by posing as insurance firm agents.
- They convince their targets to make premium payments for insurance schemes that do not actually exist.
- They do not issue policy documents.
- Often, the victims keep making payments year after year, only to realise at the time of policy maturity that there never was a genuine scheme.

RECENT CASE: A techie from Wadgaonsheri alleged that she had been duped of ₹3.4 lakh in just two days. She said the online fraudsters duped her between April 4 and 6 by promising handsome income from performing online tasks. On the first day, the crooks paid the techie some money. However, over the next two days, they sought money from her to pay taxes as well as to upgrade her account. They said this would enable her to make more money through the part-time job. The techie agreed to their new plan, and the fraudsters gave her details of a bank account. She transferred ₹3.4 lakh to the account, exhausting all her savings. — Mehal Palli | CRIME POLICE SENIOR INSPECTOR WHO IS INVESTIGATING THE TRANSACTION CASE.

70% rise in cyber cheating cases, but no plans for small frauds wing: Dy CM

Chaitanya Marpakwar
@timesgroup.com

Mumbai: The Maharashtra government on Friday said that cyber fraud and cheating cases in the state saw a 70% rise in 2022 over 2021. However, deputy chief minister Devendra Fadnavis said there was no proposal to set up a Small Frauds Wing on the lines of the Economic Offences Wing to tackle such cases.

He was responding to questions raised by MLCs Vijay Girkar, Praveen Darekar, Ramesh Patil, Manisha Kayande, and Niranjan Davkhari in the Legislative Council.

"Last year till November, 4,286 cases of cyber cheating were reported. This is a 70% rise compared to the cases in the same period in 2021. In Mumbai, there were 1,294 cases of credit card and online cheating frauds but out of them only 37 cases have been detected. A total of 2,216 cases of online fraud related to gifting, shopping, jobs, insurance, college admissions, investments, crypto currency and loan have been registered. Out of these, 132 cases have been solved. Out of the 4,286 cases of cyber fraud registered, till November 2022, only 279 cases have been solved," Fadnavis told the Legislative Council.

He said five cyber police stations have been set up at the regional level in Mumbai to keep a check on rising cases of cyber cheating and online fraud. To ensure cyber cases are detected faster, a cyber laboratory has been set up and advanced technology has been made available to police stations, he said.

Experts, however, said the official numbers may not even be a fair indicator of total crimes committed in cyberspace. The surge in 2022 is a result of more complaints being converted into FIRs. Job frauds, crypto investments, insurance swindles, sextortion and electricity bill cons are among leading categories of cyber offences that are on the rise.

Techie falls for clickbait, loses ₹22 lakh to crooks

Times News Network

Pune: A 29-year-old software engineer from Wakad was duped of ₹22 lakh by cybercrooks. They lured her by claiming that she could earn ₹60,000 a month easily by completing some easy tasks.

Between March 2 and March 14, the woman made 60 online transactions to the UPI account numbers provided to her by the crooks. She realised that she had been duped only after she almost emptied her bank balance and did not get any returns.

"Senior Inspector Akhsh Magdhar of the Hingwadi police told TOI the woman works with an Indian tech company in Banglore. On March 2, she received a message on her cellphone, which stated that she could earn money by working part-time. "The techie was told that she would be given easy tasks to complete, such as watching videos and promoting. She got paid ₹100 for each video she liked," Magdhar said.

THE MODUS OPERANDI

The crooks lured her by offering her money on video job offers.

They offer these jobs in part-time jobs by promising that they can earn lots of money by just sitting at home and without affecting their current jobs.

Victims fall prey as these jobs are usually simple and just involve sharing videos or pages on social media platforms.

To gain victims' confidence, the crooks initially transfer money to their bank accounts after the tasks are completed.

When the techie accepted the offer, she was added to a group on a social media platform, and sent a few video links. "She opened the links, liked the videos and sent screenshots to a woman who had contacted her. The woman returned ₹1,000 for completing the task," Magdhar said.

The techie was then told that future tasks would be provided, for which she would have to send her money. She was promised "good returns." "When the woman transferred ₹1,000, the crooks sent her ₹5,100 in return and gained her confidence," Magdhar said. The techie then kept transferring money in subsequent tasks. Gitesh Shelke@timesgroup.com

Pune: A 62-year-old lawyer from Parvati has lodged a complaint with the cyber police after she was duped by online crooks of ₹56.7 lakh between 2014 and 2020, over insurance premiums.

According to the lawyers complaint, once she agreed to subscribe to the policy and the caller sent her some bogus documents to her. Believing it to be true, she kept making payments till 2020. ## Why B. Sc. – Cyber & Digital Science?

The required skills are analytics, engineering, and software development, and also highly specialised functions such as intrusion detection (monitoring suspicious activity on the network), access management, risk auditing, cryptography, forensic sciences, and network security.

Phishing schemes were the number one crime type with 300,497 complaints and, for the first time, investment schemes reported the highest financial loss to victims. Victims aged 30-39 were the largest reporting group, while the greatest dollar loss was incurred by citizens aged 60 and older.

Among the complaints received in 2022, phishing, personal data breach, and non-payment/non-delivery are the top incidents reported. And while phishing ranked number one, the associated dollar loss of $52 million is small in comparison to investment fraud which resulted in a $3.3 billion loss— increasing a staggering 127% from the previous year. Within those complaints, crypto currency investment fraud rose from $907 million in 2021 to $2.57 billion in 2022, with the most targeted age group reporting this type of scam being 30-49.

In the state-wide rankings, Illinois was 5th highest for number of victims at 14,786, and 7th highest for victim dollar loss at $266.7 million. Business email Compromise (BEC), a sophisticated scam targeting both businesses and individuals performing transfers of funds, topped the list, measuring dollar loss with investment fraud and tech support scams rounding out the top three in Illinois.

- BEC—$83,883,493
- Investment Fraud—$75,614,466
- Tech Support—$31,413,362

There have been more than Thousand research areas in the field of Cyber Security gathered by our esteemed faculty. These are some of the areas covered for the purpose of promoting and advocating Cyber security.

CHIEF INFORMATION SECURITY OFFICER

A chief information security officer (CISO) is the senior-level executive within an organization responsible for establishing and maintaining the enterprise vision, strategy, and program to ensure information assets and technologies are adequately protected. The CISO directs staff in identifying, developing, implementing, and maintaining processes across the enterprise to reduce information and information technology (IT) risks. They respond to incidents, establish appropriate standards and controls, manage security technologies, and direct the establishment and implementation of policies and procedures. The CISO is also usually responsible for information-related compliance (e.g. supervises the implementation to achieve ISO/IEC 27001 certification for an entity or a part of it).

FORENSIC COMPUTER ANALYST

With the increasing rate of cybercrimes, the need for forensic computer professionals who will investigate data breaches, security incidents and criminal activity cant be overemphasized. With good analytical skills, you are most likely going to succeed in a career as a forensic computer analyst.

FORENSIC COMPUTER ANALYST

A Forensic Computer Analyst is a specially trained professional who works with law enforcement agencies, as well as private firms, to retrieve information from computers. Computer Forensics Analysts are also referred to as computer forensics investigators, examiners or specialists.

Computer forensic analysts combine their computer science knowledge with their forensic skills to recover information from computers and storage devices. In addition, they are responsible for assisting law enforcement officers with cyber crimes and also to retrieve evidence. Furthermore, forensic computer analysts are also responsible for following all safety and privacy procedures when handling sensitive financial or personal information such as documents, videos, or pictures. Additionally, they must handle and receive evidence carefully and keep accurate records of duties performed.

INFORMATION SECURITY ANALYST

An information security analyst is one who is employed in order to monitor private data and prevent any malicious attacks or attempts to steal such data. Information security analysts may be referred to as digital security professionals who make the use of protection technology such as secure servers and firewalls to protect their client's data. The information security meaning also includes efforts made to identify weaknesses in networks that make data vulnerable and address these issues to strengthen data security. In a world that effectively runs on technology, the demand for information security skills is only going to increase.

PENETRATION TESTER

Some penetration testing jobs carry other titles, such as "ethical hacker" or "assurance validator." These terms reflect the main duties of a penetration tester (or "pen tester"): to seek, identify, and attempt to breach existing weaknesses in digital systems and computing networks. These systems and networks include websites, data storage systems, and other IT assets. Many people confuse penetration testing with vulnerability testing. In actuality, these two cybersecurity specializations have distinct differences. Vulnerability testers look for flaws and weaknesses during a security program's design and setup phases. Penetration testing professionals specifically seek out flaws and weaknesses in existing, active systems.

Penetration testing teams simulate cyberattacks and other security breaches designed to access sensitive, private, or proprietary information. They utilize existing hacking tools and strategies as well as devise their own. During a simulated attack, pen testers document their actions to generate detailed reports indicating how they managed to bypass established security protocols, and to what degree. Organizationally, penetration testing teams create value by helping their employers avoid the public relations fallout and loss of consumer confidence that accompany actual hacks and cyberattacks. They also help businesses and organizations improve their digital security measures within established budgetary confines.

The sections that follow explore key soft and hard penetration tester skills.

SECURITY ARCHITECT

Security architects assess their organizations' information technology and computer systems, identifying strengths and weaknesses. They conduct penetration tests, risk analyses, and ethical hacks on local area networks, wide area networks, and virtual private networks. They also assess routers, firewalls, and comparable systems to determine efficacy and efficiency. Security architects think like hackers. They push existing computer and network security systems to their limits. Once security architects identify vulnerabilities in existing systems, they plan and implement architectural changes to boost security structures. These professionals often develop and implement entirely new security architectures. They blend knowledge of security hardware and software, organizational needs, and cybersecurity risks with organizational policies and industry standards. As security architects build and maintain security systems and networks, they prepare budgets, oversee expenses, and allocate personnel resources as needed. Security architects provide guidance to information technology (IT) security team members. They also lead IT analysts, security administrators, and security engineers to coordinate effective security protocols. Security architects also respond to security breaches. When incidents arise, security architects assess causes, damages, and data recovery, preparing thorough reports for their colleagues, managers, and executives. They also implement appropriate changes, updates, and upgrades in response to vulnerabilities and incursions.

IT SECURITY ENGINEER

The Information Security Engineer is responsible for the security of an organization's computer systems and networks. Also known as an Information Security Analyst, the engineer implements security measures that effectively safeguard sensitive data in the event of a cyber-attack. The role is highly collaborative, involving frequent interaction with various members of the IT team. The Information Systems Security Engineer is expected to report directly to upper management.

The Information security engineer should work in collaboration with the information security team to offer support to security tools and technologies such as firewall, proxy server, remote access, and others. The professional must document the configurations and network designs to help in the effective execution. It is the Information Security Engineer who conducts log analysis and other network forensic investigations. They provide full cooperation to the appropriate teams for participating in cyber investigations.

SECURITY SYSTEMS ADMINISTRATOR

A security systems administrator is someone who gives expert advice to companies regarding their internal security procedures and can also help to detect any weaknesses in a company's computer network that may make them vulnerable to cyber attacks. Security systems administrators are a company's first step in monitoring suspicious activity either within the local network or from outside internet traffic.

Security systems administrators are in charge of the daily operation of security systems, and can handle things like systems monitoring and running regular backups; setting up, deleting and maintaining individual user accounts; and developing organizational security procedures.
